

To follow Christ is to learn from his character. As bearers of God's image, we have the potential to incorporate Christlike attributes into our life and character. To be transformed into the image of God is to be more like Christ and to witness the blessings that follow.

To follow Christ is to learn from his character. As bearers of God's image, we have the potential to incorporate Christlike attributes into our life and character. To be transformed into the image of God is to be more like Christ and to witness the blessings that follow.

To follow Christ is to learn from his character. As bearers of God's image, we have the potential to incorporate Christlike attributes into our life and character. To be transformed into the image of God is to be more like Christ and to witness the blessings that follow.

To follow Christ is to learn from his character. As bearers of God's image, we have the potential to incorporate Christlike attributes into our life and character. To be transformed into the image of God is to be more like Christ and to witness the blessings that follow.

To follow Christ is to learn from his character. As bearers of God's image, we have the potential to incorporate Christlike attributes into our life and character. To be transformed into the image of God is to be more like Christ and to witness the blessings that follow.

To follow Christ is to learn from his character. As bearers of God's image, we have the potential to incorporate Christlike attributes into our life and character. To be transformed into the image of God is to be more like Christ and to witness the blessings that follow.

To follow Christ is to learn from his character. As bearers of God's image, we have the potential to incorporate Christlike attributes into our life and character. To be transformed into the image of God is to be more like Christ and to witness the blessings that follow.

To follow Christ is to learn from his character. As bearers of God's image, we have the potential to incorporate Christlike attributes into our life and character. To be transformed into the image of God is to be more like Christ and to witness the blessings that follow.

To follow Christ is to learn from his character. As bearers of God's image, we have the potential to incorporate Christlike attributes into our life and character. To be transformed into the image of God is to be more like Christ and to witness the blessings that follow.